RG 123: Records of the Rock Spring Congregational United Church of Christ [UCC], 1908-2003(217 records)

The Rock Spring Congregational United Church of Christ is a diverse religious community. It was founded in 1912 by a group of residents living in the Vanderwerken area of Arlington who wanted to form a congregational church. It is a church, according to its website, "united in Christian covenant to see the will of God as revealed in scripture, in tradition, and in Jesus Christ," and where every member has a say and all decisions are reached by consensus. This inclusive and egalitarian organization became involved in the Civil Rights Movement of the 1950s and 1960s, most notably in its association with the Arlington Council on Human Relations. Consisting of a broad spectrum of people and which included many members of Rock Spring Congregational, the Arlington Council on Human Relations was formed in 1958 in order to improve the economic, civic, and racial conditions in Arlington County. Affiliated with the Virginia Council on Human Relations and coordinating with other local, regional, and national agencies and organizations, it sought to promote better understanding and communication while trying to lessen tensions between the different groups living and working within Arlington County's borders. Much of these images are from Subgroup 2, Visual Records. The original objects scanned include glass plate negatives, lantern slides, and film negatives dating from around 1908 to the late 1940s. Subjects include the C&O Canal, Washington, D.C., church outings, and more. One group even documents some of the survey work that went into constructing the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad.
